

MID-WEEK PICTORIAL

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY PUBLISHED BY The New York Times COMPANY
VOL. XI, NO. 14, JUNE 3, 1920.
SUBSCRIPTION $5 A YEAR. (CANADA $6 A YEAR.)

PRICE TEN CENTS
(CANADA 15 CENTS)

A JUNE BRIDE

As charmingly portrayed by Dorothy Dalton, the versatile stage and screen favorite, in a specially posed photograph.

(Photo by Alfred Cheney Johnston.)

In This Issue:

NEWS IN PICTURES
CARRANZA'S FLIGHT
AND DEATH

STAGE AND SCREEN FAVORITES

EXPANSION OF GREECE
ARMENIAN MANDATE
"BABE" RUTH IN ACTION
BASEBALL STARS
SPORTS

And Other Interesting Features

Flashlights

Finish of the Metropolitan Handicap at the opening of the season at Belmont Park, N. Y., May 24, 1920. Wildair is winning with Thunderclap second, and On Watch third. It was only the second time that this historic feature had been won by a three-year-old. The victory was an impressive one by three lengths.

(S) International.)

Joan of Arc celebration held at Orleans, the city memorable for the victory of the heroic maid who delivered it from the power of the English. French troops are grouped about the statue in the principal square of the city. Marshal Foch was present.

(S) Underwood & Underwood.)

Conversion of British gunboats into cargo steamers, illustrating the rapid transition from war to peace. Eight vessels are involved in the process. The work is being carried on in compliance with the British Corporation rules and the work includes the straightening of the stem (the boats are double enders) and the building of a fore-castle. The depletion of world's shipping, caused by the depredations of the submarines, makes it necessary for the loss to be made up in the quickest way possible.

(S) Underwood & Underwood.)

NOTICE TO AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS:—The MID-WEEK PICTORIAL will pay $10 each week for the best photographic print of any big event in the United States or Canada of the week's news taken by an amateur photographer. The editors will make the choice. Any other submitted prints used will be paid for at $2 each. Prints not used will be returned only if postage is sent. Send the prints unmounted, any size. Address The MID-WEEK PICTORIAL, Room 1708, Times Building, Times Square, New York City.

00002

Soldiers, Governors and Diplomats in Recent News

J. B. PAYNE

United States Secretary of the Interior, who succeeds Walker Hines in charge of railroad affairs.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

HOMER S. CUMMINGS

Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who has been chosen temporary President of Democratic National Convention.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

CAPTAIN N. E. IRWIN
Commanding dreadnought Oklahoma, has been ordered to Mexican waters.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

COL. P. M. BANNON

who has been assigned to the command of the United States marines off the Mexican coast.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

SIM-EON

D. FESS

Republican Representative from Ohio, who opposed the closure rule proposed in connection with bonus.

JOHN W. DAVIS

American Ambassador to England, whose name may possibly be placed before the Democratic Convention.

HENRY J. ALLEN

Republican Governor of Kansas, who is to debate on labor questions with Samuel Gompers. He has been mentioned in many influential quarters as a possible candidate for President.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

W. S.
KENYON

Republican Senator from Iowa and head of committee investigating expenditures of Presidential aspirants.

Living and Dead American Soldiers Brought Home

Secretary of the Navy Daniels making an address in tribute to 153 dead officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps on the pier at Thirty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, where the bodies of the dead were placed on the arrival of the steamer Nereus May 20, 1920. The bodies had been exhumed from military cemeteries at Brest, Nice and Marseilles.

Polish-American troops arriving in New York on the U. S. transport Princess Matoika May 23, 1920. They had enlisted in the Polish Army to fight the Bolsheviks after the armistice had been declared. Many of the men had seen hard service on the western front, and after the declaration of the armistice had gone to Poland to protect that country against the Bolshevik troops that were menacing her frontier. The men were sent to Camp Dix, N. J., for demobilization.

(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

Military Measures Taken by British in Ireland

Police barracks at Rush, Ireland, that were recently attacked by a mob of between 50 and 100 armed raiders. They blocked the surrounding roads with trees and cut all telegraph and telephone wires. The walls were pitted with bullets. The attack was repulsed. One man was wounded.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Armored car used by a British detachment in bringing army pay from the Bank of Ireland. The men are as fully equipped as though they were going into battle. The situation has become so grave that only the most rigorous methods keep it under control.

(© International.)

IRELAND is still seething with revolt and outbreaks are of almost daily occurrence. Police barracks have been attacked in various parts of the country, income tax offices have been invaded and the papers burned, and cattle have been driven from the farms in the rural districts. The offer of Home Rule that has been made by the British Parliament has not proved satisfactory to any section of public opinion. In Londonderry there have been serious riots between the Orangemen and the Sinn Feiners, and many deaths and woundings have resulted. The British Government has transported large bodies of troops to Ireland, and it is reported that blockhouses are to be erected and large areas fenced off as a measure to keep the population in check.

Cavalry forces arriving in Ireland from England. It is announced that large numbers of troops have been dispatched to maintain order.

(© International.)

Tragic Developments in Mexican Revolution Resulting in Death of Carranza chief figure in the Mexican revolution, whose appearance has been changed by the growth of whiskers, but whose missing arm identifies him. The picture was taken at his headquarters at Tacubayo, where he was interviewed by American newspaper men.

ALVARO OBREGON
(© Pathe News.)

Ring the chimes of victory at the Cathedral in the Mexican capital after the entry of General Obregon at the head of the revolutionary forces.
(© Pathe News.)

Obregon's troops passing through the Plaza de la Constitucion, one of the main squares of Mexico City. The city was taken without bloodshed, as the Federal troops had made good their retreat. The revolutionary troops were received with a welcome that testified how deep had been the dissatisfaction with the recent actions of the Carranza Government. The Obregon temporary Government assumed control, and there was no disorder.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Last photograph taken of the late President Carranza (marked with cross) taken just before the battle of Rinconado. He is talking with General Murguia.
(© International.)

Excited crowds of Mexicans filling Zocalo Square in Mexico City, cheering the success of the revolutionists in taking the capital.
(© Pathe News.)

YGNACIO BONILLAS

Mexican Ambassador to the United States, who fled with Carranza and was with the latter at the time of his death. Bonillas was a candidate for President of Mexico at the elections that were to take place in June, and it was the undue favor shown him by Carranza and the suspicion that the latter was preparing to manipulate the election that resulted in his overthrow.

Part of the Presidential train wrecked at the battle of Rinconado.

(© International.)

GENERAL JUAN BARRAGAN
Chief of Staff to Carranza and now in jail in Mexico City pending investigation of Carranza's killing.

(© Wide World.)

Typical soldiers in Obregon's army of occupation of Mexico City. They were snapped on their entry into the capital. They are of the rough rider type, in the uniforms that have usually associated with rebel forces.

(© Pathe News.)

Trains bearing Carranza and his adherents being prepared for defense at the battle of Rinconado, which resulted in a defeat for the President's forces.

(© International.)

The Fifty-sixth Battalion of Obregon's army arriving in Vera Cruz from Jalapa, after clearing the intervening territory of those who still adhered to Carranza's fortunes. It is interesting to note that the wives of soldiers accompanied the troops in their customary way, preparing the meals on the tops of the cars, and otherwise attending to the comforts of the men.

(© International.)

Germans Restoring Horses and Cattle to the Entente

Horses are here shown being assembled at the Friedrichsfelde, near Berlin, for delivery to the Entente nations in compensation for stock taken from France and Belgium.

Calves that have been rejected by the Entente Commission as not being up to the standard required. Every animal is scrutinized with great care, and only those are accepted that are free from defects and in perfect health.

MEMBERS OF THE ENTENTE COMMISSION INSPECTING STOCK DELIVERED UP BY THE GERMANS TO REPLACE THE DEPLETED HERDS OF THE FORMERLY OCCUPIED TERRITORIES. THE RESTORATION OF THESE OR THEIR EQUIVALENT WAS ONE OF THE IMPORTANT POINTS IN THE TREATY OF VERSAILLES.

Figures and Place of Meeting of Republican National Convention

EDWIN P. MORROW

Governor of Kentucky, who has been mentioned as the possible Permanent Chairman of the Republican National Convention. His temperament is judicial and he is said to be acceptable to all the Republican groups.

(© Keystone View Co.)

M. McCORMICK
Illinois Senator, who may be Permanent Chairman of Convention.

Huge Coliseum Building at Chicago, where the Republican National Convention is to be held, beginning June 8, 1920. The flags are already in place and seats are being constructed for the 13,250 people who are expected to fill the building.

(© International.)

L. W. HENLEY
Secretary of the Committee of Arrangements for the Republican National Convention, and his assistant, Miss Mary E. South. A thousand details have to be settled and they are kept working at top speed as the opening day draws near.

(© International.)

Exterior view of the Coliseum, where the representatives of the Republican Party will meet on June 8, 1920, to select a candidate for President of the United States: The portal decorated with flags and shields is the main entrance. From four days to a week will probably be required to adopt a platform and determine upon the nominee.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

WILL H. HAYS
Chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Hays is from Indianapolis, Ind., and has proved an energetic worker and able executive.

Recent Happenings of Interest on Land, on Sea and in Large number of German guns captured by the Americans on the battlefields of France and Belgium and now stored at the Port Newark, N. J., naval base. They are designed for distribution among the 48 States of the Union as memorials of America's victorious participation in the war. They will be set up in the parks or squares of capital cities.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Ruins of one of the stores of Scranton, Pa., wrecked by a gas explosion. The city is a great coal centre, and it is alleged that excessive taking of coal from beneath the town has caused the streets in some quarters to sink, owing to insufficient propping and support. Gas mains have burst and explosions have resulted.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Members of the National Woman's Party, who recently "heckled" Chairman Will Hays of the Republican National Committee at a gathering of the Program Committee at Washington. Left to right are: Misses Sue White, Nashville, Tenn.; Jean Forrer, Washington, D.C.; Lucy Branham, Baltimore; Edith Ainge, New York; Emma Wold, Portland, Ore., and Elsie Hill, Norwalk, Conn.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

the Air Recorded by the Camera for Mid-Week Readers.

Soldier of the U. S. Army wig-wagging to the U. S. Army transport Northern Pacific from the sea wall. The steamer went on the rocks off San Juan, Porto Rico, a short time since. Lighters and tugs assisted her and she will be floated.

(© International.)

French-built Chalais-Meudon dirigible that has been bought from the U. S. Government by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, for the establishment of the first intercity airship line. It will start this Fall, making daily round trips between Akron and Detroit, carrying mail and express. The distance is about 150 miles each way. Later on passengers may be carried. The airship is 260 feet long and has two motors of 250 horse power each.

(Goodyear News Service.)

Simple but effective device used in Philadelphia to permit trolleys and other vehicles to keep going during a fire. The hose is stretched over two temporary platforms, keeping the street clear and preventing congestion of traffic.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

an Independent Republic, and re Released from Turkish Tyranny

Map representing approximately the boundaries of the new Armenian Republic. The exact lines will be fixed by President Wilson.

AL KHATISSIAN
President of the Armenian Republic was formerly Mayor of Tiflis Russian Government and has marked ability.

ence of Armenia has been decided Peace Conference, an action that been foreshadowed. It was unat forlorn and outraged country longer beneath the cruel domin. The boundaries of the new re- et been determined, but President asked to define them, and has The lines that will probably be llowed are indicated on these provided for Armenia to the sea. Armeni has been offered to the the allied nations, who point out wer could be credited with such ves as our own. The President- matter to Congress with a mes- g that the mandate be accepted. not yet been taken up by that indications are that the mandate The distance of Armenia from penditure of money and to some t would be involved are pointed are opposed to the proposition. t a party one, as some leading Administration, notably Senator indicated their opposition to the measure.

from Near East Relief.)

Armenian beggar soliciting alms. Begging is a profession which has many members in all the countries of the Orient.

Citadel of Adana, a town on the right bank of the Sihun, 528 miles southeast of Constantinople.

MERCHANDISE FOR SALE IN STREET OF AN ARMENIAN VILLAGE.

Brush market in the town of Aintab. Fuel is scarce on the Armenian plains, and the brush is in demand.

Armenian girl of the more prosperous type, of whom few are left in that desolate and stricken country.

The more common type of Armenian peasant woman, such as were driven by thousands into the desert to die.

Recent Views Taken in Former French Battle Zones

Present day scene in the market place of Peronne, France. This typical little French town was nearly wiped out by the battles fought in its vicinity that will go down in history as the Battles of the Somme. With the final retreat of the Germans in 1918, the former population returned to take up the tasks of daily life. They found the place a pile of ruins, in some cases even the streets being unable to be detected beneath the masses of debris. Soon little huts, built from the nearest materials at hand, sprang up. The above photograph shows the temporary dwelling of a family on the site of their former home.

The beautiful Gothic City Hall at St. Quentin, France, which suffered terribly in the battles that raged about the city during the advance and retreat of the German forces. Of particular value was the facade with its perfect Gothic ornaments. It is now being restored to its original beauty. It took nearly two hundred years in building and was rivaled only by the Cathedral of St. Quentin, which also suffered greatly.

Historic hotel (du Coq Hardi) at Verdun, as it is today. This city will be forever memorable for the heroic defense against the armies of the German Crown Prince. For many months the struggle continued, but the Germans "did not pass." The photograph shows beams shoring up buildings that threaten to fall. Especial efforts are being made to restore the town as a perpetual memorial to the glory of French arms.

(© Arthur C. Train.)

Ypres, Martyred Belgian City, Now Reviving

MARKET SQUARE AT YPRES, BELGIUM, NEAR THE MELANCHOLY RUINS OF THE CLOTH HALL, WHILE A CATTLE SHOW WAS IN PROGRESS. BELGIAN ROYALTY WAS IN ATTENDANCE. THE SHOW WAS DESIGNED TO STIMULATE CATTLE BREEDING AND THUS HELP TO REVIVE PROSPERITY.

(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

CATTLE SHOW IN FULL SWING IN THE MARKET SQUARE AT YPRES MAY 8, 1920. EVEN AMONG THE RUINS THE INDOMITABLE SPIRIT OF THE BELGIANS IS SHOWN BY THIS EVIDENCE OF BUSINESS ENERGY. MANY OF THE CATTLE WERE THOSE RESTORED BY GERMANY IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PEACE TREATY.

Japanese high school students in a hotly contested game between rival schools giving their school cheer to urge their comrades on to victory. The cheer leader is an established institution in this country, and one of the most interesting features of the games between schools and colleges has been the energy, almost frenzy, put into his efforts. The Japanese cheer leader here shown is not behind his American model in activity.

(Photos from Adachi.)

American Methods and Customs Being Rapidly Adopted by Progressive Japan

Traffic policemen on Cinza Street, Tokio, which from its extensive traffic is known as the Broadway of Japan. In addition to the men themselves, the signal shown in the picture is used to warn vehicles. The interesting feature is the word "Stop" in English. It indicates how rapidly the English language is becoming almost an international one all over the world.

Girls of the Atomi School in Tokio, which numbers six hundred students, going through a system of calisthenics under the direction of Professor Tazawa. About the gymnasium are grouped the parents and friends of the pupils. Physical training is being extended very rapidly through the Japanese schools, and the most approved methods of America are being adopted under the tuition of competent instructors. Girls as well as boys are given a thorough course of training.

Thrilling "Stunts" and More Useful Features in Field of Aviation

Smallest dirigible in the world leaving the ground for her maiden flight over Los Angeles, Cal. The trip was a successful one, and the "Pony Blimp," as she is named, fully met the expectations of her constructors. The little aircraft is ninety-five feet long, and has a three-cylinder motor, capable of propelling the dirigible at the rate of from forty to sixty miles an hour. She can carry enough fuel for a continuous flight of eight hours. Two passengers and the pilot can be carried in the underbody.

(© International.)

Close-up view of the same tiny dirigible shown in the preceding picture. The machinery is of the most approved pattern, and it worked admirably in the initial flight of the craft. While hardly large enough for more than sporting purposes, its lightness and speed would make it extremely useful in time of war.

(© International.)

Leaping from a racing automobile and catching at a rope ladder suspended from an airplane. The theory of the stunt had been figured out, but the execution was defective because the airplane was making 90 miles an hour to the car's 70. This jerked Panghorn loose from the ladder and he rolled on the sand at San Diego, Cal. Fortunately he was not injured.

(© G. E. Arnett.)

Events of Interest Here and Abroad

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium immediately after alighting from an airplane in which they made a flight from Belgium to England. They landed at Farnborough after a successful trip. The occasion of their visit was the wedding of Mr. Oswald Hesley, member of Parliament, to Lady Cynthia Curzon.

(© Central News.)

G. C. BERGDOLL

draft dodger and convict who escaped from his guards while on a visit to his mother's home in Philadelphia May 21. He leaped into a car at the door and got away. A reward has been offered for his capture.

(© International.)

Testing the quality of leather at the Department of Agriculture. Pieces of the leather are fastened on a wheel and worn against a sanded belt, which is figured to furnish the same pressure on the leather that it would have to undergo if worn as part of a shoe.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

Professor Charles Marvin, Chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau, examining a new self-recording weather-observing instrument called a meteorograph, his own invention. It is attached to kites and sent into the upper air to record the conditions that prevail at various altitudes. Ten kites are often operated at one time.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

London home of J. P. Morgan that has been offered by the owner as a gift to the United States for its Embassy building. It is located at 13 and 14 Prince's Gate. The offer was made a year ago, and has recently been renewed. President Wilson has laid the offer before Congress, but no action has as yet been taken.

(© International.)

Kings, Premier and Territory of Greece

FEW nations have had a more stormy existence in recent years than Greece. After her emancipation from Turkish control she was ruled over for thirty years by Otho I., the son of a Bavarian King, but his reign was disturbed by constitutional troubles, and he was deposed in 1862. The present dynasty is Danish in origin and dates from June 6, 1863, when George I. became King. He was succeeded by Constantine, who was deposed in 1917 because against the will of the people he had favored the cause of the Central Powers. Following this period Greece fought on the side of the Allies. In the new territorial decisions of the Peace Conference she has benefited largely, receiving Thrace, practical control over Smyrna and its hinterland and receiving the Islands of Imbros, Tenedos, Samothrace, and other islands in the Aegean Sea.

ELEUTHERIOS VENIZELOS

Premier of Greece and generally recognized as one of the greatest statesmen in Europe. He was a notable figure at the Peace Conference.

OTHO I.

First King of modern Greece after its deliverance from Turkish rule. He was the second son of Louis I. of Bavaria. He was made Greek King in 1832 and reigned until 1862, when he was deposed.

GEORGE I.

became King of Greece after the deposition of Otho I., June 6, 1863, and reigned until March 18, 1913, on which date he was assassinated. He was an able monarch and a skillful soldier.

EX-KING CONSTANTINE

became King on the death of his father, March 18, 1913; forced to abdicate June 11, 1917, because of his pro-German sympathies; now exile in Switzerland.

ALEXANDER I.

ascended the Greek throne on the deposition of his father, June 12, 1917. He was faithful to the allied cause and is popular with his people.

Map of Greece at different periods from 1883 to 1920. The growth of the kingdom is shown as the result of wars and treaties. The Balkan War enlarged her territories, but the greatest growth has occurred since decisions affecting her and her neighbors have been made by the Peace Conference.

Mightiest Hitter That Baseball Has Ever Known

Close-up view of the eyes of "Babe" Ruth that are one of his chief assets in making him the terrific batter that he is. Those keen eyes can time the speed and gauge the direction of the ball to the fraction of a second or an inch. The pitchers face him with fear and trembling, for there is no man in the league harder to deceive.

(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

"Babe" Ruth, whose real name is George H. Ruth, as he appeared at the Polo Grounds wearing for the first time the uniform of the New York Yankees, who purchased the right to his services from the Boston Red Sox for the unprecedented sum of $125,000. The additional crowds that his name will draw to the games will soon make up that sum.

Ruth in position to follow his favorite sport of putting the ball "over the fence." Last season he made twenty-nine home runs, which no other player approached. He is the hardest hitter that has ever been in the game, though admirers of Ed. Delehanty of the Phillies may question the claim. He has made six home runs so far this season, the last one just after coming from a sickbed.

Baseball Stars In and Out of Uniform

W. R. JOHNSTON, crack first baseman and mighty hitter of the Cleverlands. On May 25 he was leading his league in hitting, with .390.

(© Paul Thompson.)

E. G. MYERS, pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, who are now on their Eastern trip. Myers is one of the mainstays of the team in the box.

(© Paul Thompson.)

W. L. GARDNER, third baseman of the Cleverlands and one of the leaders in his position. He is a sure fielder and accurate thrower to first.

(© Paul Thompson.)

Leading Batsmen of the Major Baseball Leagues

MAY 25.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Player.	Club.	G.	AB.	R.	H.	PC.
Johnston, Cleveland	...	28	100	9	39	.390
Jackson, Chicago	...	28	118	11	44	.373
Weaver, Chicago	...	29	127	26	47	.370
Jacobson, St. Louis	...	29	104	16	38	.365
Hendryx, Boston	...	29	110	19	39	.355

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Player.	Club.	G.	AB.	R.	H.	PC.
Hornsby, St. Louis	...	30	120	21	47	.392
Groh, Cincinnati	...	30	118	25	45	.381
Daubert, Cincinnati	...	29	111	17	37	.333
Duncan, Cincinnati	...	31	116	16	38	.328
Williams, Philadelphia	...	31	125	22	40	.320

EDDIE COLLINS AND E. CICOTTE, Captain and second baseman of the Chicago White Sox (left) and pitcher (right) in their street clothes. Both are wonderful players.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Favorites in Spoken and Silent
Drama

VIR-GINIA FAIR
whose youth and charm have made a strong appeal to the audiences all over the country who have followed her performances on the screen. She has marked histrionic talent.

(Photo by E.
White.)

DOROTHY GISH
affectionately known as "Dolly" to the film audiences, who are captivated by her sparkle and vivacity. (Photo by Apeda.)

ALICE BRADY
daughter of the well-known theatrical producer and now starring in the films. She is strong in emotional parts.

(Photo by M. Goldberg.)

ANN ANDREWS who has the leading feminine role in "The Hottentot," which owes a large part of its success to her ability.

(Photo by Ira L. Hill.)

Flashlights

Chinese pilgrim on a ledge of branches laid on posts and guarding against slipping by holding to a chain along the face of the cliff. Below him the cliff falls sheer for 1,500 feet. He is going to a small temple cut out of the rock. If he reaches it, his courage absolves him from other religious obligations.

Graves of two Americans, Dr. J. R. Armstrong and W. Stowell, at Elizabethwell, Africa. They were killed in a train accident while taking pictures for Universal Film Company in connection with a Smithsonian Institution expedition.
(© Universal Film Co.)

"Trench of the Rifles," which recalls a tragic episode of the World War. The place is near Douaumont, one of the defenses of Verdun. Men of the 137th French Regiment were going out to mount guard, and while creeping along in Indian file with rifles on shoulders and bayonets fixed the earth suddenly opened, as the result of an explosion, closed again, and buried the whole detachment of twenty-five, leaving their bayonets rising six inches above the ground. On Sept. 14, 1919, the trench was blessed by Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Rouen and formerly Bishop of Verdun, amid a scene of great emotion. The thought of the dead soldiers still keeping guard appealed powerfully to the imagination of the French people.
(© Arthur C. Train.)

Press agent "stunt" that had the merit of novelty when a lion was mugged into a New York hotel May 24. The proprietor is said to have first learned of his presence by the call over the phone for "fifteen pounds of raw beef." The lion was promptly evicted.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

Singular Ways of Reducing High Cost of Living

A New York chef recommends the use of sorrel for soup. Sorrel is more commonly known as sour grass, and is generally found where the ground is comparatively bare, as in the vacant lots about the city. It is very plentiful from early Spring until the late Fall, and can be secured for the mere trouble of picking it. It grows in clumps, and only two or three clumps are required to make a big pot of soup, which the chef declares is very nutritious.

(© Mirzaoff.)

Gathering clusters of mushrooms found growing in the fields. There are a number of common varieties of mushrooms that are found in fields and pastures during the late Spring, and also in the Autumn if the weather proves favorable. Great care should be exercised, however, for some varieties are poisonous, and the tyro would better leave them alone.

(© Mirzaoff.)

Weeds are seldom thought of as a desirable article of food, but here is the dockweed which grows almost everywhere. It is rich in iron, resembles spinach in appearance and tastes very much like it. It is nourishing and easy to digest. The present intolerable price of almost every kind of vegetable justifies calling attention to those that are in easy reach of every one and can be secured without cost.

(© Mirzaoff.)

An amusing feature of life in German towns is herewith shown. Many apartment houses are devoid of yards, and chickens are raised in the living rooms of the tenants. They have to have some exercise, however, and on Sundays are taken out for a stroll.

(© Central News Photo Service.)

Chickens having their Sunday outing after a week's confinement in the living quarters of their owner for lack of outdoor space in the overcrowded sections of Berlin. After the day is over they will be put in the wagon shown and trundled back for another week of indoor life.

(© Central News Photo Service.)